Excuse me, Gog

Yes. Magog?

You appear to have a bird's nest on your head.

Oh !

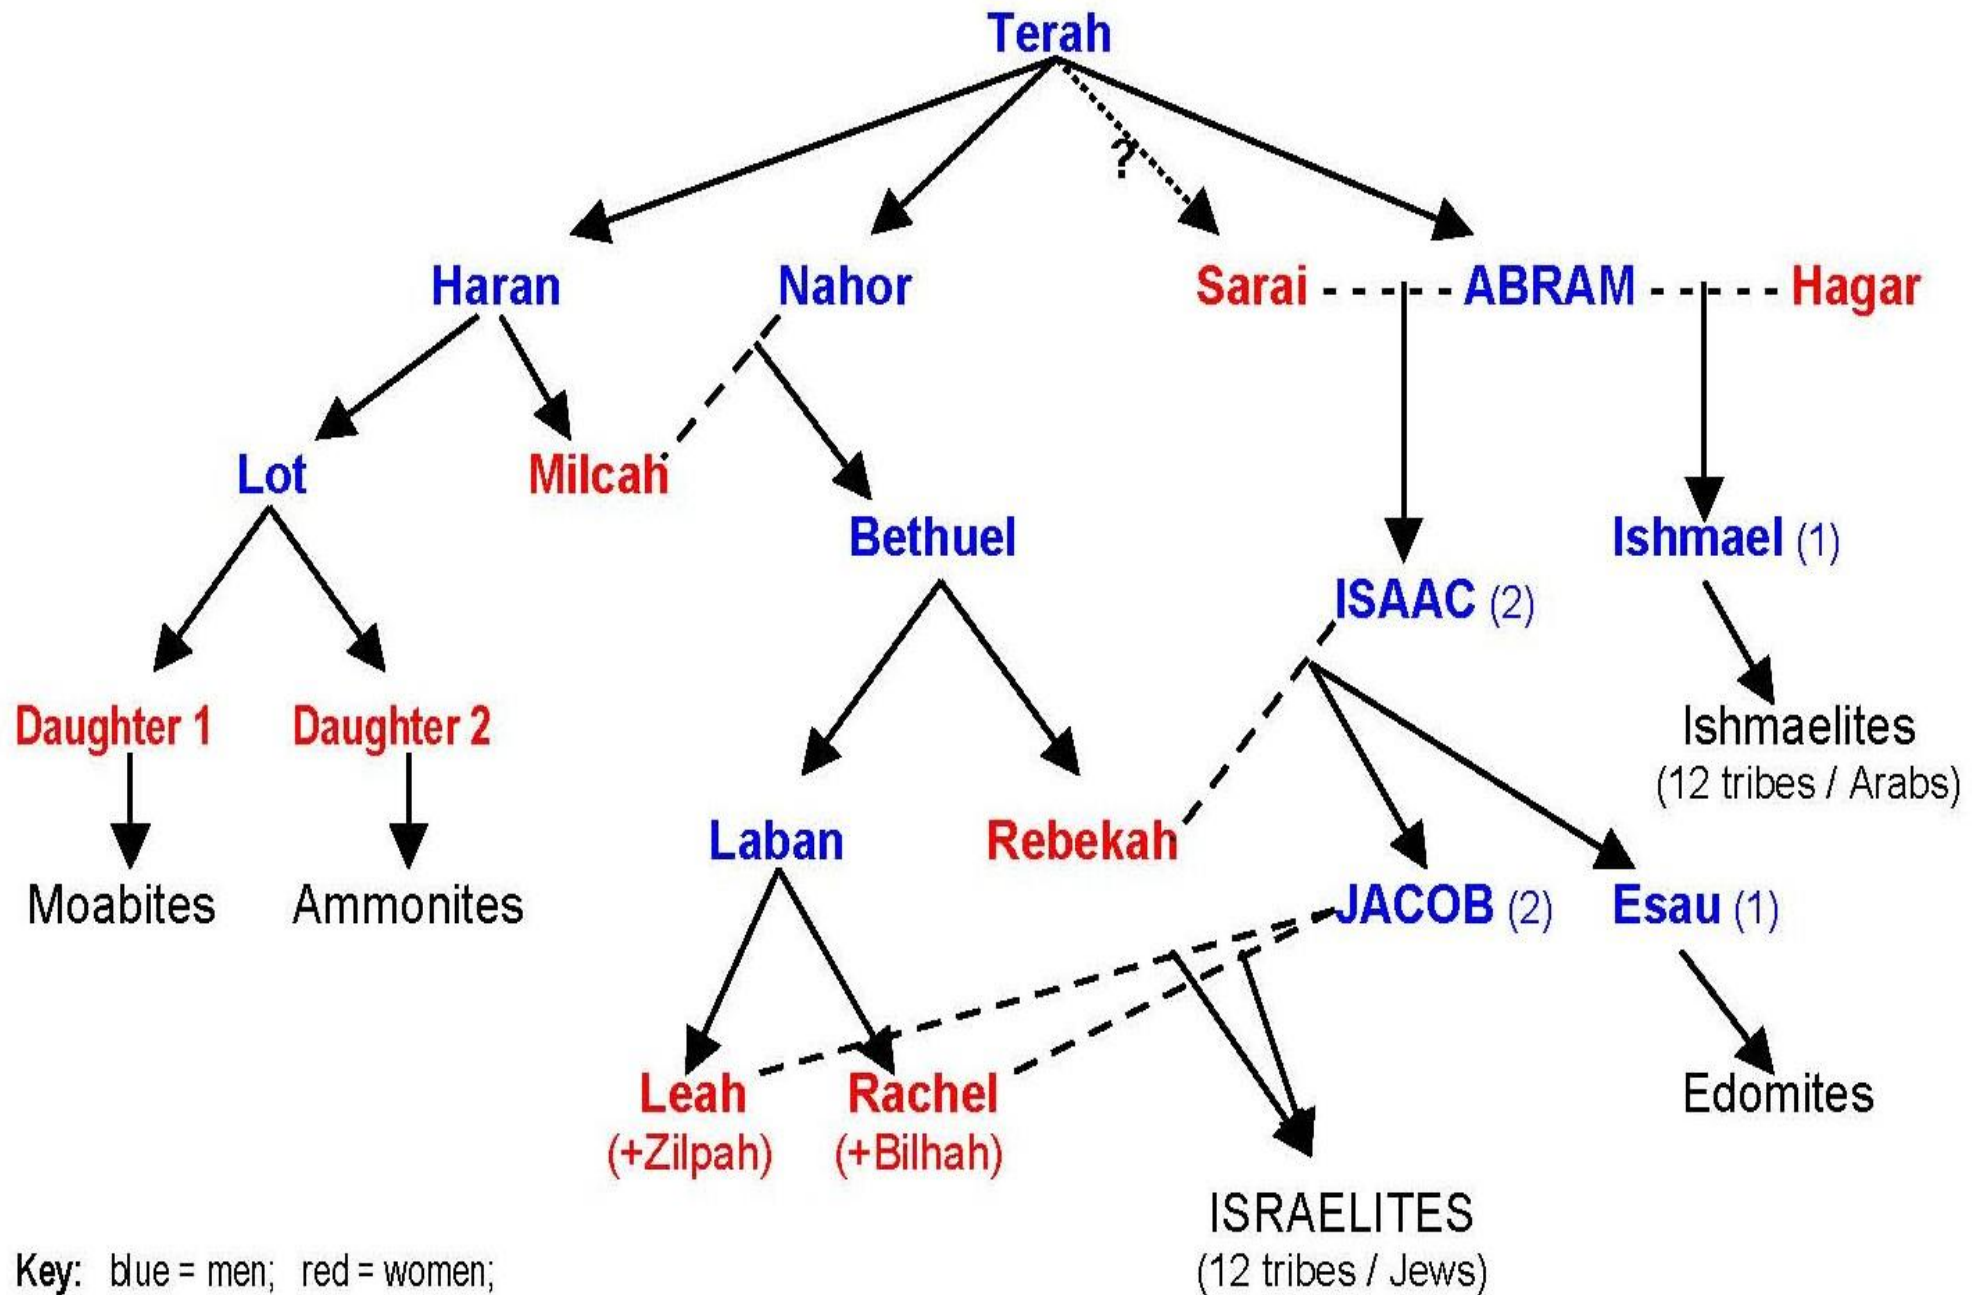

There are 2 iron gates here, standing the one on Gog's side and the one on Magog's side. They were erected here after the great fire and are made of the original material. In 1708 to regularise the market between the houses of Boscawen and de Cogan, the gates were erected. The gates are made of iron and are the work of the Selbourne Iron Works. It is traditional for Gog to stand to the north and Magog to the south.
